Help tomorrow's leaders gain understanding, acquire knowledge, and develop skills for living in a globally interdependent and culturally diverse world!

The 2010 International School Connection Youth World Conference will be held in Nyköping, Sweden (near Stockholm). Students ages 11–19 are invited to join youth from around the world for fun, friendship, and active learning. The conference is designed to empower young people to take action on global issues that will affect their future. As a member of this intimate international learning community, participants will engage in global leadership training to study one issue impacting every continent—the diminishing supply of clean water.
